Body Contouring with or Without Surgery

Body contouring in Dubai or body shaping is something associated with the liposuction surgery give the shape to those parts of the bodies that consumes so much fats deposit.

Liposuction treatment is of two type's mainly surgical liposuction and non surgical liposuction. How the body contours gives the results with and without the surgery is an important concern.

Liposuction surgery process:

Surgical liposuction is same as normal liposuction. Surgical liposuction works by making small incisions in the body area from where fat has be removed. Liposuction, where on one side has large number of advantages where on the other side it has few disadvantages also. Liposuction is a type of procedure which eliminates the pockets of extra fats on the different part of bodies including lower abdomen, thighs, arms, shoulders, neck, china, and face. Having a considerably heavy weight and a lot of fats deposited may cause problems for most people. Diet and exercise also goes in vain when talking about weight reduction. Body loses its shape when it has excess fats deposited. In such cases, liposuction proves to be the best weight reduction surgery.

Liposuction non-surgical process:

Non surgical liposuction is a latest technology developed to undergo the fat removal process. The risks and complications associated with the surgical liposuction have cut off the way of non surgical liposuction technique.

This invasive process functions with the help of laser technology and a long list of other science techniques including radio frequency waves, ultrasound rays, and other certain surgical process. Non surgical liposuction has also reduced the concept the injections and incisions as it works with the help of laser energy. No surgery is required in this new technology as from the name; it removes fat from the body by penetrating rays. The rays which led to the area of treatment, makes the area loose thus by removing the extra pockets of fat with the help of a suction pump attached with machine. Non-surgical liposuction process, therefore, is far better from the surgical liposuction as it has enlisted a wide range of beneficial aspects including body contouring in Dubai.

Benefits of surgical over non-surgical liposuction process:

Advantages of liposuction without surgery:

Unlike standard liposuction surgery, laser liposuction is a non invasive surgery process. As it works with the intensity of laser light so it is less possible to leave scars on the body. Due to its inventive technology, it takes very less time both during and after the surgery. This surgery
